EU CODE WEEK
CALL FOR LEADING TEACHERS 2019

Are you an active teacher who would like to become an essential part of the EU Code Week Campaign, one of the most widespread grassroots initiatives in Europe?

We are looking for passionate and very active teachers who would be interested in becoming the next Leading Teachers in the EU Code Week campaign, which has already provided other teachers in Europe with international visibility and recognition, awards, professional development opportunities and much more! Would you like to join this community? Keep reading!

What are the benefits of being a Leading Teacher?

- Obtain the Code Week Leading Teacher badge for your professional portfolio.
- Be the first to access professional development opportunities (online events, face-to-face workshops, etc.) and other events that will be organised as part of Code Week, and which will contribute to energize your career.
- Be the first to have the opportunity to participate in international contests and competitions with prizes and awards.
- Be part of an international community of like-minded teachers to learn from and exchange with.
- Gain recognition and visibility at regional, national and international level.
- Be an essential part of one of the most successful grassroots initiatives in Europe.
- Be part of a growing community that has engaged
  2.7 million people worldwide in 2018 alone.

What would you be expected to contribute?

- Actively promote the EU Code Week campaign (in your school, your city, in national conferences, etc.).
- Encourage teachers and school leaders in your area / country to organise lessons / events and register them on the EU Code Week website.
- Connect schools, teachers and students interested in participating to Code Week in your community and encourage collaboration.
- Lead professional development webinars in your country, and be a reference for other teachers in your country but also in Europe.
- Help us to disseminate relevant information and learning materials, and contribute to translate them into your national language.
- Be in contact and collaborate with the EU Code Week Ambassadors and representatives of educational organisations in your country.
- Contribute as an online moderator in the Code Week MOOC (Massive Open Online Course).

In order to help you, you will receive from us:

- Online webinars to help you get started as Code Week Leading Teacher;
- Promotional material you will be able to distribute among your networks;
- Online support in case you have questions, doubts, etc.
